

First Step Towards Being the Miracle

If you wish to use thought and emotion to produce miracles, that is simply claiming your right, your heritage. And that is the pathway of discipleship, which is a discipline.

It begins with the first step. Not postponing until tomorrow, not postponing because of another desire, but because the discipleship is the overriding desire of all, and it is melded or merged into the fabric of your daily life so as to be one with it. Not as a separate robe, to be donned on certain occasions or in the presence of certain entities, but a veritable way of life, that thee and God know one another and all of thy kindred souls whom are met in that day's events.

Begin where you are, with what you have before you. Expect not a light to come down forth from a distant realm and wipe that away. The light is already present. It is you. You have the power to change that which is about you. Begin.

Full Reading: 19890428 PT-09Making Changes