Halley's Comet & The Aquarian Age - Part II

Last month we discussed how the return of Halley's Comet is symbolic of changes in the human psyche. In this case, representing an opportunity for us to open ourselves to the Aquarian Age energies that are building up on our planet. Like any opportunity, however, you must be ready and willing to take advantage of it.

One of the most intensive energy times is happening right now. From January 20, 1986 through February 20, the sign of Aquarius is heavily occupied, and on February 9 when Halley's makes its closest approach to the sun, there is an impressive lineup in Aquarius: Halley's Comet, the Sun, the Moon, Mercury, Venus, and Jupiter!

Even the fact that Voyager brought us new information and our first close up look at Uranus during this period is significant—Uranus is the ruler of Aquarius!

COMMENT:

I found it particularly interesting that Judy seemed to be speaking directly to us in this article. So much so in fact, that she even makes reference to the Voyager! Of course she is really referring to the space probe.....
... isn't she?

She also had comments on each sign in her article, but if you want to see them, you'll either have to order the Creative Frontiers publication, or, perhaps better yet write or call Judy at the address above her article.

Thanks Judy!
