

A House Divided Cannot Endure, Live Your Choice

Audio: A House Divided

LAMA SING: We have spoken much about the Law, that to know the Law is to know God. But to become the Christ is to learn to live the Law, to be the example of it.

Could we be so bold as to suggest that to you? We would not wish to do less than what the Master has done and told us to do, as the example. He said it. We are only repeating it to you. Reminding it to you. Awakening it in your mind, your memory.

You are and always have been Children of God, brothers and sisters of The Christ. That spirit which is borne in the Master is the same as is borne within you. And yet you claim it not. How long will you in the Earth carry about your unopened gifts? What things must take place to urge you to open them, to claim them? Must there be famine? You have that. Must there be pestilence and dis-ease? You have those, as well. Must there be conflict and war? You have those.

Do you wish the Earth changes to be made manifest in a tumultuous nature, to as such rend the fabric of the delicate surface of the Earth? Then, would you call upon your gifts? Would you seek your heritage if the very Earth beneath your feet were, in this moment, quivering? Do consider that, dear friends, as we present it as your brethren, those whom love you and know you for what you are.

It is not I, but the Father within me, that doeth the works. Do you remember that? All these things, and greater, can ye do. There are so many items of commentary that we might state here, to attempt lovingly to awaken within you a certain perspective, a light, a flickering light of recall so that you would state, "Oh, yes. I remember something, somewhere".

Universal Law is not a magical key which can be presented to you, in the physical sense, and thereafter you use the key to open every portal that you come to. Universal Law is the key which prevents the portal from ever being present. If there are no doors closed unto you, what need have ye of a key?

But you must learn to live the Law. Live within it, learn to love it, let it become a part of your thinking. Let it slowly, gently, but completely, permeate your being. You cannot have areas of your life which are reserved and kept intact from the presence of God and the application of His Law. You cannot divide yourself and live as a spiritual entity in this half of your life and as another entity in the other. For no house divided can long endure. Neither can a man serve two masters. Believe what you shall, and then believe unto that. But do not divide yourself, even if the path or choice that you select might be adjudged by some as wrong. At least, have the truth of living your choice. See? — 19880203
